THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Trap For The Captain

Washington, Jan. 17—The distressed state in which certain of the self-styled "liberal" groups have gotten themselves involved in their somewhat obvious effort to needle Capt. Harold Stassen, whose candidacy for the Republican 1948 presidential nomination is quite open, into making a fool of himself. It is not likely to succeed.

THE chief trouble with these "left-wingers" is that, following the disgruntled CIO bosses, they have "broken" with Mr. Truman and are now engaged in what seems to be a campaign of petty personal disparagement. They go about Washington commiseratingly saying "Poor little Mr. Truman" and making other similar remarks of a not very kindly nature. It is the line taken by the Daily Worker and other "liberal" publications. This is not hurting the President very much. In fact, the idea that the Communist organization and the radicals generally are contemptuous of and angry at Mr. Truman rather commends him to a great many Democrats of whom large numbers have been voting Republican in national elections since 1936 and many others have been voting Democratic with great reluctance.

BUT, clearly, this radical disparagement of Mr. Truman will be entirely futile unless these groups, so long under the Roosevelt wing, can find a new figure around whom to rally. They need such a figure very badly and strangely enough, Mr. Henry Wallace, most vocal champion of the "common man," no longer seems to meet their requirements—certainly not for 1948. So, with rather striking unanimity, they seem to have centered on Mr. Stassen and journalistic reflectors of the extreme left view have been busy lately offering Mr. Stassen unsought advice as to his 1948 strategy.

FIRST, they assure him that President Truman will "continue progressively to alienate the independent, liberal and labor votes." Thus, driven out of the Democratic party, these groups, it is said, will put pressure on the Republicans to nominate a candidate whom they can support. Mr. Stassen, they say, can become that candidate. All he has to do is to make his alliance with the CIO, come out strongly for the CIO-Roosevelt policies to which Mr. Truman gives two thumbs up (plain lip service only, and follow up the assault of his Oregon friend, Senator Wayne Morse, upon Senator Taft, the "Old Guard" and the alleged effort to nominate ex-Governor Bricker.

IF HE will just operate along these lines, Mr. Stassen is told, the "liberal" groups will throw him their support and his path to the White House will be cleared. It seems a simple enough plan, the way they present it. But it isn't very sound. One trouble is that it ignores all the realities of politics. Another is that it assumes Mr. Stassen is an economic crackpot as well as a political idiot. Of course, he is neither one of those things. For example, it is certainly clear to him, as to everyone else with a

THE STATE OF THE UNION

Today is the date President Truman first chose to address a formal message to Congress on "the State of the Union." (Now he has delayed it till Monday.) There is no mystery about the State of the Union. Frankly, it's terrible.

Nevertheless, one of the few details of the Constitution which still is taken seriously at the White House is the idea that Congress may not be aware of what everyone else knows—until the President brings the news.

The words of the Constitution are interesting: "He (the President) shall from time to time give to the Congress Information on the State of the Union, and recommend to their Consideration such Measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

A good deal of past and present friction at Washington rises out of differences of opinion about what those words mean.

Most Americans, including virtually all students, historians and statesmen, think the idea was to permit the President to call Congress' attention to problems and to give them the benefit of his advice—but that from there out Congress was to be on its own.

Certainly the Constitution itself and the records of the Constitution Convention which wrote it agree that Congress was viewed as the most direct and responsible representative of the people in their national government; that policy questions were put in Congress' hands; and that Congress was given pocketbook authority over the entire national administration.

Yet for more than a century various Democratic Presidents have dealt with Congress as though the Con-

Between 300 and 400 persons attended the sale of garage equipment and personal property of Lewis K. Beer, at Bedminster on Saturday.

Mr. Beer has sold his real estate to Mr. Keller, Sellersville, and will take up residence in Perkasie. Keen interest was shown in the disposal of a platform scales, on which there were at least six bidders, and it finally went to the high bidder for $5.00. On the other hand, there was little interest in the sale of a 1930 model coupe which brought the comparatively low figure of $25.

Prices received for garage equipment and other articles were as follows: gear press, $50; cylinder boring machine, $120; hydraulic jack, $72; common jack, $18; four vises, $10 to $20; electric drills, $25 to $30.

600 Pilots Dissuaded from Post-Surrender Attack

Tokyo—How 600 kamikaze pilots were dissuaded from a post-surrender mass suicide attack on the U. S. Third Fleet was disclosed today by the Christian leader of Japan.

He is Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, who credited Yoshio Kodama, a war crimes suspect, with convincing the pilots that the treacherous attack would have been a "great disservice" to Japan.

Kodama, described by Japanese leftists as the "young Hitler of Japan," is now held in Sugamo prison, awaiting trial as a war criminal. He made millions of yen while serving as purchasing agent for the Japanese navy during the war.

The Nipponese Christian leader disclosed today that Kodama made hurried trips to Japanese airbases, where he exhorted kamikaze pilots to remain calm in the face of defeat.

"No further mass meetings, demonstrations or agitation on demobilization will be permitted in this command. Commanding officers will be held responsible for this directive and will court-martial offenders for disobedience of orders."

Those restricted to quarters for continued agitation against the Army's demobilization program were identified as—

HUNTER FIRM'S GEN'L
OFFICES TO BE MOVED

Personnel To Be Located At Emilie Plant; Beaver Road Offices to Close

TO MAKE LIGHTERS

The general offices of Hunter Manufacturing Corp., which have been located in buildings located at Bristol Terrace I, Beaver Road, will be changed, effective January 21st, to the Emilie plant of the firm.

Some renovations have been made at the Emilie offices to accommodate the complete force of 20 to 25 who will be transferred from the present office site. The buildings which Hunter firm has been using at the Terrace will no longer be leased by that firm it is stated.

The change is the result of the cut-back following the war, and of the plan to centralize the firm's activities. Thus all activity will be confined to the Bath Road and the Emilie plants. At Emilie it is planned within about two weeks to commence manufacture of cigarette lighters. This will be the first to be made by Hunter at any of the local plants, although lighters have been in production at its plant in Mexico.

For some time past workmen have been busy setting up machinery in preparation for the new phase of production.

It is anticipated that more individuals will be placed on the payroll as soon as production gets underway, a representative of the firm stated today.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY DIES OF BURNS

EDDINGTON, Jan. 17—A small boy was fatally burned, and the woman who went to his aid painfully burned here this morning.

The dead child is: Arthur Long, 6, Station avenue. Death occurred for the boy at about 1:30, in Harriman Hospital, Bristol, about two hours after the incident occurred.

The youngster, Arthur Long, 6, was in the kitchen of a 2½-story house on Station avenue, near the P. R. R. station. He is thought to have been playing with matches in the kitchen when his clothing caught fire. He ran upstairs to the middle bedroom and flames from his burning clothes ignited the bed.

Mrs. Margaret Albright ran from an adjoining room and grabbed Arthur, carrying him downstairs and placed him in a chair which was also ignited. She then picked him up again and ran to the front porch where she was given assistance by neighbors and firemen.

Arthur suffered first and second degree burns of the entire body. Mrs. Albright was burned about the face and knees, and her burns are first degree burns.

There were three children in the house at the time, a boy, 5 months old, and a girl, five years old. The girl carried her baby-brother out into the yard. They were taken in by Mrs. Joseph Lynch, who lives in the other half of the 2½-story frame house owned by Creighton Vandegrift and rented to William Albright.

The child who was burned and Mrs. Albright were taken to the Harriman Hospital, Bristol, by Bucks County Rescue Squad and Penn Salmon.

Cornwells Fire Co., No. 1, extinguished the blaze, which damaged the kitchen while the remainder of the house was filled with smoke.

NO FLOOD OF MAIL

It is not exactly a staggering surprise to learn that no deluge of mail and telegrams descended on Congress as a result of President Truman's recent broadcast. It would have been more of a surprise if people had responded in large numbers to the chief executive's appeal to put the heat on the legislators so that they would adopt his legislative program.

One good reason for this, of course, is that Mr. Truman's address was very poorly timed if his hope was to arouse such a response. When he delivered it the House and Senate were in recess and its members had left Washington for their various homes. There was no chance of stirring them into early action by pouring letters and telegrams into their offices, and this may have taken the edge off the enthusiasm of that part of the public which favors Mr. Truman's program.

But there was a more basic reason why the President's broadcast was not well calculated to produce broad public response. Instead of concentrating on a single well-defined issue, he scattered his fire all over the field. He was asking support not for one specific piece of legislation or for a well-defined policy of action but for a whole bundle of bills of little merit and lukewarm public appeal.

Under these circumstances the people and the pressure groups who sympathize with Mr. Truman must have found it difficult to decide just what he wanted them to do. At any rate, they were not inspired to dash off letters to their representatives urging them to back the President's legislative program.

NOBLE EXPERIMENT

New Zealand, among other countries, is engaged in experimentation with socialistic government. Eighteen months ago a law was passed providing two weeks' vacation for all workers, of course with pay. Primarily the law was intended to give well-earned rest to overworked and depleted staffs in war plants.

Laudable as was the motive, application of the scheme in New Zealand has caused no end of annoyance. Everybody took the vacation at the same time. Arrival of the year-end holidays found both business and industry shut down tighter than General Motors plants in the United States.

The nation's cities were dead. Business and transportation were at a standstill, professional men, such as doctors and dentists, ceased practice. Eating places were closed, and those without homes were unable to obtain food. Despite a serious fuel shortage, all mines were closed.

Vacations for all, a good idea under capitalism, becomes a national headache under socialism.

Russia's debt is $114 per person, that of the United States $2,000. But the crackpots are expected to start a campaign any minute for a multiple-billion dollar donation to Russia.

stitution used the word "consideration" to mean that the legislative body must jump up and pass a law every time the President makes a speech.

Andrew Jackson, whose birthday the Democrats honor with their most expensive fund-raising dinners, appears to have been the inventor of the idea that Congress was created for the sole purpose of doing whatever the President wanted.

Cleveland, Wilson and the late Franklin Roosevelt all had similar viewpoints while they were in the White House—although the writings of both Wilson and Roosevelt, before they became President, fully accepted Congress as the equal of the President.

As a Democratic President, Mr. Truman has inherited many bad habits from his predecessors. His party's political morality traces back to Aaron Burr, inventor of Tammany Hall. Its patronage methods are those of Andrew Jackson, founder of the "spoils system." Its language is Cleveland's, its Messiah-complex was the gift of Woodrow Wilson.

All these ingredients were blended by Roosevelt and put on the radio. Now Truman feels that he has to take them seriously.

The President has fumbled consistently since he took office, but the main place where he muffed the ball was in dropping his original plan of trying to work with Congress—not boss it.

The rift between Congress and the White House is at the seat of most of our present troubles. Truman has widened that breach. He has broken the associations he had with Congress, where he sat as Senator, and has taken up the cudgels for Congress' most bitter enemies—the payroll bureaucrats.

Most of the major problems of the times, from the national budget to the labor crisis, could have been solved long ago with a little give and take between Congress and the White House. That's what cooperation is—give and take. It doesn't mean the White House taking over and Congress giving in.

Truman, whether he realizes it or not, is in far worse position to carry on the fight to enslave Congress than any of his predecessors whom he is trying to imitate.

Those figures—men like Cleveland, Wilson and Roosevelt—were men of great personal following, orators of ability, and had gone to the White House with the deliberate backing of a majority of the voters, not by the accident of another man's death.

They had a public to which to appeal. But Truman does not. He enjoyed a transient popularity after he took office, but this was based on false assumptions and has dwindled with every speech Truman has made.

His appeal to the public in his recent radio talk brought a pitifully small response, according to the White House's own count.

Congress returns to Washington fresh from a contact which it is impossible for the President to enjoy—mingling with the American people themselves. It must be remembered that the so-called "vacations" of Congress are quite unlike the junkies of Presidents taking it easy. A Congressman is likely to get less sleep and learn more of benefit to the nation while sojourning in his home community than if he had stayed in Washington.

The President's demand that Congress pass a program which it doesn't believe in is essentially unsound; and so is his hint that he knows better what the American people want than their legislative representatives do.

What will the President say now? He won't say, of course, that he is more to blame for our present troubles than anyone else, and that he is sorry, and will consult different advisers in the future. But further buck-passing, further criticism of Congress which translates to criticism of his own party, and further demands for the right to keep on spending non-existent money, will merely add fuel to the flames.

grain of political sense, that the surest way to end his chance of being nominated would be to adopt the "liberal" ideas now being urged upon him.

NO one linked with the CIO and endorsing the Roosevelt policies could possibly get by in the Republican convention. But even if it were possible to get the nomination thus labeled, a Republican candidate sufficiently left wing to get the CIO endorsement would stand practically no chance of election. The millions of anti-Roosevelt Democrats who have been voting Republican as a protest against Democratic radicalism would swing back to their own party and they would be followed by millions of conservative Republicans.

AND what such a candidate and such an alliance would do to the Republican party's finances can be imagined. On the whole, it is an extremely silly notion in which Mr. Stassen is not likely to take any stock. His friends believe he has a real chance of being nominated and far too much sense to fall into such a trap. They say he is young, vigorous, able and honest. Also he is a "liberal" but his liberality does not include a belief that the size of the national debt and the depth of the deficits are matters of complete unimportance or that CIO endorsement is a prime essential. Nor does the idea of a political alliance with the bosses of the one labor faction which in the past four years has piled up a veritable mountain of popular ill will very greatly appeal to him at this time.

she was a very active worker in Salem Reformed Church and other movements in the county seat.
She is survived by her husband, two daughters and a brother and sister.

Mr. Goodling since leaving the Farm School, had been in charge of the farm connected with the Holmesburg Prison.

Prices received for antiques and modern furniture at the sale at the home of Charles W. Wexler, Langhorne, on Saturday, were rather high.

Between 300 and 400 persons attended the sale, which was featured by the disposal of a large number of antiques. Mrs. Wexler for a number of years was interested in the collection of buttons, and during the auction a number of buttons which had been placed in frames sold $5 to $8 per frame, and buttons in boxes brought $3 and $4 per box.

Interest was shown also in the sale of a grand piano, which went to the high bidder for $445. An electric refrigerator went for the ceiling price of $60. A marble top bureau brought $15 and a marble top stand went to the high bidder for $11.

Paisley shawls ranged in selling price from $10 to $15, and an old spinning wheel sold for a comparatively low figure at $8. Garden hose brought $3 per roll.

There was a demand for plank bottom chairs, which sold as high as $18 each. Victorian style chairs brought $14 each. Homespun linens sold readily for $4 a piece, and the sheets ranged in price from $2 to $2.25. Old prints in frames also sold quite well for as high as $27.50.

Customers Storm Meat Markets of Borough

Operators of meat markets in Bristol found themselves facing a "run" on the meat counters yesterday and today as a meat "famine" was anticipated in the United States. The expected "famine" is anticipated because of the widespread packing house workers' strike which began yesterday.

Small crowds appeared at counters in most of the meat markets or general stores selling meat here yesterday and again today, with local merchants hard pressed for supplies and assistants in many instances.

In Philadelphia chain stores and independent retail merchants today debated resuming unofficial meat rationing as Philadelphia housewives stormed butcher shops for supplies to tide them over the packing house strike.

One large firm reported selling 100,000 pounds of ham, one-third more than the company's daily average, and disposed of two cartons of lamb instead of the normal one carton.

As the Office of Price Administration prepared to combat possible black market activities, it was predicted that hundreds of small butcher shops served exclusively by western packers might have to close shortly.

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FIRST ROUND OF YOUTH LEAGUE ENDS TONIGHT

Franklin and Edgely Will Meet in One Game On Mutual Aid Floor

CELTICS VS. EAGLES

Edgely is Surprise Team of Circuit; Celtics Have New Uniforms

BRISTOL YOUTH LEAGUE
Schedule For Tonight
FRANKLIN - EDGELY
CELTICS - THIRD WARD

Team	Won	Lost	Avg.
Franklin	6	0	1.000
Harriman	5	2	.714
Third Ward	4	2	.667
Catholic	4	3	.571
Celtics	3	3	.500
Edgely	2	4	.333
Rainiers	1	6	.143
Spartans	1	6	.143

The first round of the Bristol Youth League will end tonight when two games are played on the Mutual Aid floor, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

In the first game, the undefeated Franklin team will play Edgely while the second tilt sees the Celtics pitted against the Third Ward Eagles.

The Edgely club is the surprise team of the circuit and if in good form tonight will give the unbeaten Franklin team plenty of opposition. The Franks have won six straight contests and are resting in first place by a game and one-half. A win tonight will increase its lead to two full contests.

Edgely has won two games during the season. One of these was an upset triumph over Harriman. Followers of the local league predict that there may be an upset in tonight's fracas with Freddie Hibbs' boys stopping the Franklin lads.

The Celtics will be decked out in new uniforms when they line up against the Eagles. The uniforms were donated by Torano's Garage and the Celts are out to celebrate by adding their fourth win of the season and moving into a tie with the Catholic Boys' Club for third place.

Managers Vito Della, of the Celts, and Manager Rodgers, of the Eagles, will not make any change in their regular starting lineup.

R. & H. Team To Meet Hightstown Five in First Game on R. & H. Court

SOME NEW PLAYERS

Undefeated American Steel Quintet to Oppose Kaiser Cargo

With several new players on his squad, Manager Anthony Castor will send his Rohm and Haas team against the Hightstown Rug five tonight in the first game on the R. & H. court, Maple Beach. In the second tilt, the undefeated American Steel quintet meets Kaiser Cargo.

Castor has signed "Bill" Burr, "Billy" Gallagher and "Rip" Kelly for the chemical mixers. Gallagher and Kelly are local boys, recently released from the service. Burr hails from Burlington, N. J., and plays with Villanova.

These three are expected to make a strong addition to the local squad of "Nick" Fandetta, "Joe"

Roe, "Aule" Everitt, DeWitt, Joseph Rice, and Ralph Cahall. The Rohm and Haas team lost Frank Lizenhold because the league rules prevent a player from playing with another team than where he is employed. Lizenhold works for the J. A. Roebing firm.

The Rohm and Haas team has been sliding in the league standing and is now in fourth place and has three straight losses. A defeat tonight will place the Hightstown team in a strong position to grab fourth place and send the Maple Beach team tumbling to fifth position.

The Kaiser Cargo team will attempt to hand the American Steelers their first setback. The Steelers have won 11 straight games and are solidly in first position.

Several weeks ago, Kaiser lost a tough tussle to the Steelers and now have an opportunity for revenge. Manager "Ted" Russo, of the Kaiser Cargo aggregation, has been seeking several players to aid Devon Smith in the drive towards first place in the Mercer County League.

GRANDMA SPEAKIN'...

Good many people spend too much time teachin' children how to behave toward their parents. Seems to me lots of parents ought to be taught how to behave toward their children.

Bless my soul, there ain't nuthin' easier than makin' sure yere gittin' a top quality margarine. Just look for the words "Table-Grade" Nu-Maid Margarine's Table-Grade. See so just as plain as the nose on yer face right on the package.

When you see somebody let success go to their heads, you kin be mighty sure there was a vacuum there to start with.

When I want my cakes or pies to be extra-special, I allus use a Table-Grade Margarine... one that's got a nice mild, sweet flavor. Nu-Maid Margarine's Table-Grade.
